Foreword

Justice Mr. N.K. Jain had prepared some lectures on different topics relating to law and delivered at various functions including Judicial Academy at Madras High Court and Karnataka High Court while he was Chief Justice of respective High Court between January 1999 to 2004.

My colleagues and friends insisted me to get those lectures published in the form of a small booklet, not for sale, which will enable public at large to know about the legal issues involved on subject. In this way, in addition to legal awareness, it will also help the members of legal fraternity.

With the consent of Justice Mr. N.K. Jain, at present Chairperson Himachal Pradesh State Human Rights Commission, Shimla, my humble endeavour is to release the Lecture on: Directive Principles of State Policy, Right of Equality in small booklets. This exercise is to perpetuate the memory of my beloved grand father late Justice J.P. Jain, who died as a sitting Judge of Rajasthan High Court, Jodhpur on 17.9.1975 at Jodhpur. I hope that it will widen the horizons of the law students, young and budding lawyers, judicial officers and officials who are discharging their duties in administration of Justice.
